Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Status of Claims

Claims 1-20 are pending in the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The rejection under 35 USC 112 is withdrawn in view of amendment filed 12/16/04.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1755

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

The previous rejection under 35 USC 103 is withdrawn only because Liu does not teach mono potassium phosphate, not for the other reasons put forward in the response filed December 16, 2004..

However, the following new rejections are applicable:

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. 6,518,212 to Wagh et al.

The instant claims are drawn to a composition comprising monopotassium phosphate, a metal oxide and a calcium-containing compound. As pointed out in the previous office action, the examination of the instantly claimed invention presumes that there must be three components in this composition, based upon reading the claims in light of the specification. For example, the metal oxide and the calcium-containing compound cannot be the same.

Wagh et al. disclose compositions comprising monopotassium phosphate, barium oxide or calcium oxide and calcium silicate in amounts that overlap the herein claimed composition. Accordingly, the instant claims would have been obvious because it is a known function of the skilled artisan to optimize the amounts of components in a composition depending upon the final intended use of the composition. Since the instant composition and that of Wagh et al. are both ceramic materials, such selection would have been within the skill of the artisan. See columns 3 and 4, particularly.

Regarding limitations such as making a slurry, such is not considered to confer patentable weight on an otherwise unpatentable composition. There are many reasons that would motivate the skilled artisan to make slurries, depending upon the final use of the refractory material. Use in a cement, for example, could well motivate the artisan to make a slurry. The presence of fillers would also not be considered to confer patentability on an otherwise unpatentable composition. See column 6 for the making of a slurry. Fillers are notoriously well known in myriad arts to assist in cost control when making expensive compositions, or to provide extra strength or other desirable characteristics. Note column 5 for the use of binders, equivalent to fillers.

Double Patenting

The rejection under the judicially-created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting over application SN 10/338,425 has been overcome by the terminal disclaimer filed September 1, 2004.

Claims 1-20 remain rejected over the judicially-created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting over the claims of US 6,533,821 for the reasons set forth in the previous office action.

The examiner is aware that applicant has also filed a terminal disclaimer over US 6,533,821. However this rejection is being maintained because there is no copy of the terminal disclaimer in the Image File Wrapper. If applicant will submit a copy of the terminal disclaimer in response to the office action, it will be reviewed and processed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

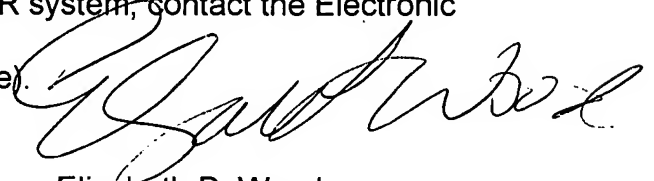

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
